Overview.

Nairobi National Park is situated 6 miles (10 km) from the heart of Kenya's capital. Established in 1946, it has 44 square miles (114 square km) of pristine savanna with a large population of migratory game animals.

Stay on the lookout for many species of game animals, including black rhinos, lions, leopards, cheetahs, hyenas, buffalos, giraffes, zebras, and wildebeest, as well as countless species of wild birds. The park's open border on its southeast perimeter allows a corridor for the natural migration of game animals during the seasonal rains. Other attractions include the ivory burning site monument, and walking trails at hippo pools.
